Dr. Cronin Was Condemned to Death by a Faction of the Clan-Na-Gael,

But a Number of Other Prominent Irishmen Are Marked.

CHICAGO POLICE TRACING ALL CLUES.

The latest developments in the Dr. Cronin tragedy are very sensational. It is now urged that not only was he tried, convicted, found guilty of treason to the Clan-Na-Gael and murdered by a committee of that society selected by secret ballot, but that a number of other prominent Irishmen were convicted and 'sentenced also, among them Father Gleason and John Devoy. The Chicago police are making arrests daily of suspects, King being taken in yesterday, and, it is reported, the ice dealer Sullivan also. Dr. Cronin's funeral took place yesterday and was one of the largest ever seen in Chicago. Seven thousand men were in line in the INFECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATOR. CHICAGO, May 26 .- The police have been put in possession of startling facts concerning Dr. Cronin's murder. It has been clearly shown by the dead man's friends | joke. that his removal was ordered by a committee representing the Clan-Na-Gael Society. Charges of traitorous conduct were preferred against him at a meeting of the Clan-Na-Gael camp. He was found guilty and his death was ordered.

The charge was based on the statement of the British spy, Le Caron, that there were four more spies in America. When Le Caron made that statement on the stand before the Parnell Commission he was ordered to give the names of the spies. He said he dared not do it because, if they were known, they would be murdered. Presiding Judge Hannen then took him into a closed ante room, and in the presence of Sir Richard Webster, the Attorney General, who is con-Russell, Parnell's attorney, Le Caron gave the names.

Suspected of Being a Spy.

Within 48 hours after this news was cabled from London, nearly every Clan-Na-Gael camp in America had met and passed resolutions declaring in favor of a rigid hunt for the four spies. Suspicion, justly or unjustly, was pointed at Dr. Cronin. A committee was appointed to try him. He was convicted without giving a chance to make a defense, and his assassins were brought here from other cities to carry out the mandate of the committee. The latter were chosen by secret ballot.

Positively nothing is known of the evidence that was produced to bring about the conviction, but it is said on the best authority that it was furnished by men who were unfriendly to Dr. Cronin. It consisted of telegrams, letters and affidavits. It seemed almost overwhelming and

Cronin Was Declared a Traitor.

His death was ordered under the clause in the Clan-Na-Gzel by-laws which says than a man can be "removed" for traiterous conduct. The word "removed" simply means death.

Cronin, his friends claim, was not aware of his trial and conviction. He had expected for years that his enemies would one day attempt to kill him, but when the trial finally took place he had no intimation of it. For nearly nine months previous to the time his death sentence was signed he has been followed night and day by a detective whom his friends had employed to protect him against surprise and assault. Cronin, however, was not aware of this precaution, because the men who were most instrumental in getting the bodyguard did not care to alarm him by telling him what they had done. The detective would have been on his trail the night he was murdered had he not been exhausted several weeks before.

Dr. Cronin Bound to be Avenged.

There are many patriotic Irishmen in Chieage who are not members of secret societies, but who are thoroughly acquainted with all the facts of Dr. Cronin's career in this city. These men are determined that the murderous conspiracy shall be fully exposed, and that the men who hatched the plot, as well as those who committed the actual murder, shall be brought to justice. Some of them have undertaken to furnish the police with all the evidence they can find, and the services they have rendered thus far have been of incalculable importance.

It is claimed that the murderous conspiracy would not have ended with Dr. Cronin's death had not his mutilated body been found. There were other Irishmen on the executive list, and they would all have shared Cronin's fate had the chance to dispose of them safely arisen. It is claimed that W. J. Hynes, the well-known attorney, Father Gleason, Captain T. P. O'Connor. John Devoy, and two others had been tried. convicted, and their death sentence signed.

The Suspect King at Last Arrested. A Press dispatch says: Another arrest has been made in connection with the Cronin murder. The man King, described by the prisoner Woodruff, alias Black, as the person who hired him to steal a horse out of Dean's barn the night of Dr. Cronin's disappearance, was captured at 2 o'clock this morning in a disorderly house. The arrest was made by de-tectives from the Central station, who lady, "and this," politing to a pretty

The Tragedy of the Trunk. It is a mystery why King has not be arrested before, though at no time has he apparently manifested any desire to leave the city, so it is understood from the police. The arrest has been kept secret, as it is desired to confront Woodruff with King. When brought together the men may indulge in mutual accusations that will be of King was the husband of a notorious woman who died not long ago, and has associated with the criminal or quasi-criminals for years, it is said. It has been believed for some time that, while Woodruff may have told the truth in some respects, he also made misleading statements. In this connection it is significant that in important details the description of King is defective. A Mighty Mysterious Man.

If Willard J. Smith, who says he is at present in the employ of S. E. Gross, tells the truth, Detective Coughlin's "unknown Smith." the man for whom he savs he ordered a horse at the North Clark livery stable on the night of the disappearance of Dr. Cronin, is more than ever a mystery. At the socialistic meeting at Waverly Hall yesterday afternoon L. G. Crowley, who lives at 68 West Chicago avenue, approached a reporter and said:

'Would you like to see the Smith for whom Coughlin says he ordered the horse?" When he was asked to point out Smith

he said he had been joking, "I don't know Smith," he said. "He is a friend of Coughlin's, and he came from Hancock, the town in Michigan where Coughlin says the Smith once lived, I think that Coughlin just happened to think of this man's name when he was forced to find some one. Trucing the Expressman.

Captain Shaack, Captain Wing and Lieutenant Scheuttler kept their offices, very busy, to-day. They were trying to find the expressman who hauled the trunk and fur-niture from 117 South Clark street. The offices of various Lakeview express companies and the homes of certain expressmen were visited, but the right man was not found. It is the prevalent belief with the officers that when he is found the murderers of Cronin will be traced up to one week ago. The reason for this lies in the fact that the expressman will be able to tell where the men went to board or room after the furniture was taken to the cottage The cottage was not occupied by them at all. yet they were in the city all the time, and called three times at Carlson's house before Cronin's disappearance. The Most Difficult Task of All.

Again on May 16, over a week after the murder, a man called on Mrs. Carlson and tried to persuade her to accept $12 for another month's rent. It seems reasonable to conclude from these circumstances that the murderers remained some days in the city after the deed was done, and returned to their boarding place, or the place where they roomed, on the night of May 4, as if nothing had happened, and remained there until May 16. To locate them between these dates seems to be as difficult a task as to locate them now.

It was reported late to-night that ice-man

CRONIN'S FUNERAL.

An Enormous Crowd Attends the Obsequior of the Murdered Man-7,000 Persons in the Procession-Prominent Names Among the Pall Bearers-Milltury Display.

CHICAGO, May 26 .- In all its details the funeral of Dr. P. H. Cronin to-day was a most remarkable affair. From one end of the big procession to the other, through the endless crowds on the streets among the throng in the great cathedral, aboard after train that, passing train the fatal cottage, sped toward Calvary Cemetery, the dead man's fearful fate was present in every mind. The corpse had been ent in every mind. The corpse had been lying in state in the Cavalry Armory on the lake front, the most central point in the city, and there early this morning the morbid and curious, with the dead man's friends, made their pilgrimage.

stood, arms at rest, at each corner of the raised platform on which reposed the cata-falque and coffin. A crowd that jammed Michigan avenue stood before the armory. The police kept a passage way open for those who wished to enter the funeral hall, and two uniformed riflemen, leaning on bayonets, lent the glamour of their accourrements to the military air of the place.

Their Last Sad Glance. For three hours the procession, in double file, marched across the platform. Only the picture and the big silver plate on the coffin plate testified that all that was mortal of Dr. P. H. Cronin was within the cas-The apparently unending line of sight-seers was turned out at the south door, and few people remained long in the building. At last the procession stopped and the pall bearers entered.

At their head was Luke Dilion, of Philadelphia, and Edward O'Meagher Condon and John Devoy, of New York, and Thomas P. Tuite, of Detroit. The first three are well-known Irish Nationalists, and the latter was a schoolmate of the doctor. Following them came Frank T. Scanlan, P. Mc-Carry, Charles Barry, Michael Kelly, Daniel Sullivan, Thomas McEnerny, Dud-ley Solon, John T. Golden, Maurice Mor-ris, Dr. John Guerin, ex-Alderman Mo-Anley, John P. Ryan, John F. Scanlon and W. P. Rend, all of Chicago. They represented the friends of the dead man and societies to which he belonged.

Leaving the armory, the casket was placed in a hearse, drawn by four black horses, and the procession was formed. At the head was a platoon of police, with Lieutenant Wilson in command. Through the dense crowds on Michigan avenue the procession pushed its way. Marshal P. J. Cahill and his aids rode at the head of the line.

A Long List of Mourners. A drum corps preceded the Hibernian Rifles, with arms reversed, and then came the cortege, with its hearse in a panoply of black, and a guard of honor from the Rifles, and the pall-bearers. The Clan-Na-Gaei Guards in gray uniform and tri-colored plumes, the Uniformed Rank of the Royal Areanum in its olive-colored suits, and thousands of members of the Ancient Order

The Ancient Order of Hibernians 1 000 strong, several courts of the Independent Order of Foresters, 1,200 in all, and 2,700 Catholic Foresters were in line. The uniformed members of the Royal Arcanum, the Royal Legion, the Catholic Benevolent Legion and fragments of a number of other or-ders swelled the line. Marshal Cahill said that 7,170 men were in the procession.

Reaching the Cathedral of the Holy Name, an immense crowd was encountered.
The vast edifice was packed two hours before the ceremonies began. Rev. Father
Agnew was the celebrant of the mass, with the Rev. Father Perry as assistant. The dirges of the bands outside and the roll of drums that came in through the windows from the yet moving procession threw a shadow of the crime over funeral vestments of the priests, into the solemnity of requiem and the deep responses of the organ.

Out to the Cemetery Grounds. After the church services the procession was renewed, and the crowds were as great as before. Down State street and Clark and Madison the march was taken to the Union depot at Canal and Adams streets, crossing two bridges en route. Three trains waited for the crowd, and 36 cars were confortably filled. Hundred of persons drove out in buggies and carriages, and hundreds came to the cemetery from the neighboring suburbs. The people on the ground numbered 3,000, probably more. Heavy black clouds in the west kept many persons away and vague rumors of trouble may have frightened others. According to a riend of Dr. Cronin there had been a report that the doctor's enemies meant to blow up the funeral train with dynamite, and that this talk deterred many from attending.

A threatening spatter of rain warned the crowd that a drenching was at hand, and the trains were soon filled, and in 15 minutes the trains were speeding back to city. Back, within gunshot of fatal cottage, whirling past subsequent foul resting place subsequent foul resting the dead man's naked at Argyle Park, thundering along within a stone's toss of the finding place of the ploody trunk in Lakeview, the trains sped,

Rev. H. G. Schorr, at one time a minister in McKeesport, but of late assistant rector of the Pinest Episcopal church in Baltimore, shot himself through the head yesterday, and when found he was dead. Two theories for the suicide are advanced, one remorse and the other unrequited love.

PEPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH. BALTIMORE, May 26 .- Rev. H. Greenfield Schorr, the assistant rector of St. Paul's Protestant Episcopal Church, the largest and most fashionable house of worship in the city, committed suicide this morning by shooting himself through the

All sorts of theories are advanced as to the cause of the rash act, but the most plausible is that he considered himself indirectly responsible for the death of a friend. About a year ago he indorsed a note for $1,000 for a college chum in Mc-Keesport, Pa., and when the paper came due he was obliged to meet payment. Last week he received a letter from his friend asking Schorr to come to Scranton to fix up the matter. He complied with the request, and after a friendly conference it was ar-ranged that Schorr should be paid in weekly installments.

The settlement was apparently satisfacory to both men, and the minister returned to Baltimore. Soon after reaching home he received a telegram stating that his young friend had killed himself. He at once went back to Scranton and his usual spirits.

Last night a reporter called on him for particulars of a singular marriage at which he officiated the night previous, and he then appeared in the best possible humor. After relating all he knew of the marriage, Mr. Schorr gave some interesting reminiscences of his own career, dwelling particularly on his newspaper experience. He contributed quite frequently to THE DISPATCH and other journals.

It was quite late when the two parted and Mr. Schorr at once retired. This morning, about 9 o'clock, the matron of the school-house attached to the rectory called Mr. Schorr and told him that a messenger wanted to see him. He replied that he would come down immediately after taking his bath. Not a half hour had elapsed when

Rev. Mr. Schorr had been assistant recto of St. Paul's for two years. He was 29 years of sige, and considered a man of fine attainments. He was educated in Johns Hopkins University, and subsequently ordained to the ministry. His first charge was in Wilmington, Del., and later he went to McKeesport. The suicide's parents are humble people, the father being a cobbler.

A WOMAN IN THE CASE. The remorse theory was advanced by the father of the minister, but late this evening it is learned that there was a woman in the This is the view entertained by the e. Notwithstanding the repulse he continued his visits. Early yesterday even-ing he hired a carriage and ordered that he driven to the young lady's house. When shows into the parlor he was very quiet, but gradually became very violent. He insisted that the young lady should marry him, and threatened that unless she consented he would blow out his brains.

A WATCH PLACED ON HIM. He was finally prevailed upon to leave the house, and, fearing that he might himself harm, the young lady sent word to Rev. J. S. B. Hodges, rector of St. Paul's, informing him of his assistant's behavior, and advising him to like a watch on him. Dr. Hodges had no idea he would carry out his threat, but thought he might create a scene in church, so he asked the officer on morning, and in case he made his appearance at church to advise him to return to his room. But Mr. Schorr did not turn up, and when next Dr. Hodges heard from him he was dead. His father, however, declines to believe the love theory, and insists that his son's death was due to remorse.

A SUCCESSFUL PASTOR.

Bishop Whitehead Says Mr. Schorr's Ministry at McKeesport Was Satisfactory. Rev. H. Greenfield Schorr was for three years a pastor of the Episcopal Church at McKeesport. A call was made at the residence of the Right Rev. Bishop Whitehead last evening in regard to Mr. Schorr, and from facts obtained there it appears that the gentleman's work among the McKeesport congregation was very successful, a new church edifice being built while he was there.

He left that place because he received a call to a church in Baltimore, and as he had some friends living there he accepted.

ISPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATOR.

NEW CASTLE, May 26 .- Rev. J. C. Bohter, paster of the German Lutheran Church of this city, has been suspended until certain charges brought against him by his congregation can be heard in August next. The offenses of which Rev. Bohner is, charged are by no means as grave as they are peculiar. He is charged with uttering falsehoods, and here is a sample of one tale credited to him. Two years ago a member of his congregation died, and the minister was present at the time of death. Later he related to the sorrowing friends how he had seen the floor of the room open up and a troop of white-robed beings enter. They stayed but a short time, but were succeeded by a com-pany of beautiful children, who also came into the room through the floor. He further stated that a member of the church that same night had gone to Greenwood Cemetery in this city and han stolen a skeleton, which ghastly relie he brought to the home of the deceased and frightened a young lady very badly when it was discovered. It seems that no one else present at the time the member died saw these things, though the pastor's belief is unshaken, and to the committee of the Lutheran Synod sent to investigate the charges of falsehood he repeated the stories, saying that nothing could cause him to change his mind on the subject. He is also charged with with obtaining money from one of the ladies' church societies by making false representa-tions. President Kunkleman, of the Synod, notified him of his suspension until August, but he has declared that he will preach and has refused to give up the keys of the church, and this morning held services as usual, notwithstanding the fact that the trustees of the church forbade it.

An injunction from Court will be asked for to-morrow by the officers of the church, restraining him from preaching until Au-gust. Rev. Bohner says some of the mem-bers have been unfair to him and that President Kunkleman's order was irregular and not in accordance with the rules gov-

In one or two instances a man stood in front and unlocked and locked the door for the ingress and egress of customers. About two-thirds of those who kept open on Sunday are believed to be hermetically sealed. There were five arrests by the police of the most defiant proprietors of open houses. GUTHRIS IS BECOMING A TOUGH TOWN.

Lawl essness and Crime of Every Description Are on the Increase.

A dispute over a valuable corner let in Guthrie caused a riot yesterday. One of the claimants attempted to erect a building on the land, but it was torn down by an excited mob. The troops succeeded in dispersing the crowd and arresting a ringleader. A number of persons were injured in the struggle. The condition of affairs at Guthrie is very bad.

PERSONAL TRENGRAM TO THE DISPATOR. GUTHRIE, I. T., May 26 .- The city of Guthrie is in a ferment of excitement over a riot which occurred at 11 o'clock this morning, in which several persons were seriously injured. The United States troops were called out and succeeded in dispersing the rioters. The particulars are as follows: United States Deputy Marshal Hayes and Amos Burnet, of Nashville, Washington county, Ill.; J. W. Sampsel, of Iola, Kan, and E. Weed, of Connecticut, are four conestants for a valuable corner lot.

All except Weed agreed to leave the matte o an arbitration committee, which by the authority of a city ordinance arbitrates all such matters. Before this committee number of witnesses testified that Deputy Marshal Haves staked the claim before 12 o'elock on April 22. Evidence was adduced showing conclusively that the deputy mar shal was engaged in staking off the claim when the first train arrived in Guthrie. This train was not expected to arrive so soon, and its coming threw Haves and others, who were staking claims before the appointed time into a state of consternation. On May 13 the arbitration committee decided in favor of Sampsel, and he was accordingly given a certificate. The man Weed is a professional lot-jumper. He has already been beaten in several contests.

WEED'S LITTLE SCHEME. It is claimed by some and with good reason, that Weed is but the tool of the crowd that came in before 12 o'clock on the opening day. He and Deputy Marshal Hayes seem to be co-partners in the corner lot over which the riot occurred this morning. In fact the same lawyer represented both men. This morning Weed, with a gang of carpenters, began the erection of a frame house on the disputed corner lot that had been awarded to Sampsel by the Arbitration Committee.

A mob of Sampsel's sympathizers immediately collected and began to shout: "Tear down the house, tear down the house." The mob gathered scantlings and drove the car penters away from the building. They then, rafter by rafter, razed the building to the rafter by rafter, razed the building to the ground. The carpenters attempted to begin a new foundation, but it was soon torn up by the infurjeted mob.

Marshal Needles appeared upon the scene and ordered the mob to disperse. They hooted and jeered at him and refused to go. carpenters to desist from their work and respect the Sabbath. This deputy was called aside by Marshal Needles and con-versed with him for awhile, when Needles returned and ordered the carpenters to go on with their work.

AN OBSTINATE MOB. The mob again interfered with the ca senters and tore up the foundation. Frank Longworth, of Chicago, made an incendiary speech to the mob, which incited a free-for-all fight, in which sticks and stones were reely used. Several revolvers were drawn but no one was shot. During the mele pickpockets were discovered plying their simble fingers and one of them was knocked dows and tramped on by the crowd, and had his leg broken by a falling rafter. Meanwhile the United States troops, under Captain Cavenaugh, came upon the scene at a double quick step. They immediately charged upon the crowd, who re-treated before them like sheep. One man named George Stevenson, Niles, Mich., re-fused to go beyond the cordon formed by the soldiers, and he was knocked down by blow from a soldier's musket, and skull was fractured. A report from a revolver scared a team of country horses they ran away, throwing out of the vehicle an old man and two children. One of the children was seriously injured. The man Longworth was arrested for his incendiary speech and taken to jail.

WANTED TO RESCUE HIM. A mob followed determined to secure his release, but Longworth spoke to them through the bars of the jail window and counseled moderation and the crowd retired. At 9 o'clock P. M., the United States troops are patroling the scene of this morning's riot. They are ready to charge at the earliest intimution of riotous disturbance Denunciations of Marshal Needles' course are very bitter. They say that two weeks ago during a conference with District Attorney Waldron and Mayor Dyer Marshal Needles said that his deputies would sup-port the decrees of the Arbitration Committee but that on this occasion, in defiance of the city authorities decree in awarding the lot to Sampsel he encouraged and supported the building of a house on premises to which builders had no title.

The complaining parties claim that the incentive which actuated Needles in this matter was the fact that a deputy marshal was interested in this disputed lot. They even go so far as to charge that Marshal Needles and deputies and the "12 o'clock erowd," of which General Pierce, of Topeka, is leader, are organized into a land-jumping ring. Marshal Needles was seen by THE DISPATCH correspondent this evening. "Why did you encourage and support the building of a house upon another person's premises?" was asked by the reporter.

In answer Needles said that a city ordinance was extant which provided that in contest cases in which adjudication was pending, either of the parties could, by givpending, either of the parties could, by giv-ing bonds, creet a building on a disputed lot. Weed gave the bond vesterday, so Needles took the position that it was his duty to secure peace and order by ordering that the carpenters be not interfered with in their work. The Marshal denied that his deputy, Hayes, was in any way interested in the lot or building the house, but your re-porter ascertained definitely that this is not true. Deputy Marshal Hayes has not relinguished his claim to the lot. As time passes outlawry in Guthrie in-creases. Not a day passes but there are fre-quent rows over claims. FIXING HIS FENCES.

Chief Arthur, of the Locometive Engineer Brotherhood, Meets Some of His Boys in Scranton—He Has Never Yet Met Mr. Powderly.

SCHANTON, May 26. — Five hundred members of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Englneers assembled at 10 o'clock this morning in the Academy of Music. Chief Engineer Arthur presided. Chief Arthur said that the meeting was purely for social purposes, but nevertheless the doors were closed against all comers not members of the order. It was reported that the meeting was held to consider grievances of the engineers on the Grand Trunk Railway, but Mr.

Arthur denied this. Engineers were present from New York, New Jersey and Northent from New York, New Jersey and North-castern Pennsylvania.

Strange as it may seem, Chief Arthur has never seen Mr. Powderly, for so he stated to a reporter this afternoon. He has visited Scranton several times during the last five years, yet he and the chief of the Knights of Labor have never met. Mr. Arthur told the writer that the Brotherhood of Locomo-tive Engineers had no connection whatever with the Knights of Labor, but were glad of its success. Personally he considered of its success. Personally he considered Mr. Powderly's order a great one.

Speaking of the strained relations between the two orders during the Southwestern strike, Mr. Arthur said: "There was a disposition on the part of some Knights of Labor to find fault with the enanignes of the Southwestern system because they would not join in the strike. My ad-vice was to abstain from all participation in the strike organized by the Kights of Labor, and to adhere to the contract made by us with the company."

Mr. Arthur was accompanied by Mr. Royal, of Chicago. A prominent railroad man who does not belong the Brotherhood, but who has been a friend of Chief Arthur for many years, said this evening: "Mr. Arthur is a good politician and a capital fellow, and he has got the boys to meet him here so as to have a nice general talk with them. His term will expire before long. I guess they will re-elect him, and I reckon that is what he wants them to do."

MURDERED HIS FATHER-IN-LAW. n Italian Barber Slashes the Poor Old Man With a Razor.

ISPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH. DENVER, Cot., May 26 .- One of the most old-blooded murders known for years occurred late last night when James Fallaco, an Italian, murdered his aged father-in-law. Three years ago James Fallaco met and formed the acquaintance of Pulize, and tell in love with his 9-year-old daughter, and so informed the old Italian. They had some conversation which resulted in the two men entering into a contract to bind them both, and Fallace paid to his new acquaintance the sum of $500 for the girl's hand in marriage, the ceremony to be per-formed within five years. He also agreed that on the day the young girl became his wife he would deliver over to Pulize a handsome wagon, and deed to his wife half interest in the house and lot he owned. The old Italian was poor and had only what he could make with his violin playing at dances and entertainments, while on the other hand Fallaco, the barber, was Late last August, Fallaco, at the age 30, was united in marriage to the daughter, who was scarcely 14. Since the time of his marriage the husband most brutally treated his young wife and frequently attacked the girl's father. Late last evening when the father-in-law called on his daughter he was met by Fallace, who killed him on the spot with a razor which he happened to be using at the time.

NORTHERN NEGROES FEEL NEGLECTED.

They Claim Their Southern Brethren Are Getting All the Offices.

Mr. James G. Blaine, Secretary of State, is ot the autocrat of the Cabinet table that it was predicted he would be. True, President harrison is apt to take Mr. Blaine's advice about many consular appointments, but he also exercises his own judgment, as have many of his predecessors. Northern negroes are reported as becoming very jealous of the favors which have been shown their Southern brethren in the way of offices.

SEPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.1 WASHINGTON, May 26. - While the President and the Attorney General were off on a yachting cruise, the Secretary of State and Secretary of the Treasury were attending divine services this morning in the church the President is accustomed to attend. Secretary Blaine has not been seen at church before, although Mrs. Blaine goes every Sunday, and this morning the Secretary was observed to join in singing the inrocation hymm His attendance at church this morning may be attributed to the fact that the rush of business at the State Department is largely over. There is probably little more than he can do in the way of sorting out applications for consulates. While there is at the State Department & large quantity of applications for appointments not yet even looked over, there is at the White House a considerable list of consular appointments recommended by the Secretary, but not yet acted on by the President. The list has been there a good while, but the President has not passed judgment on Mr. Blaine's recommends

NOT VERY STRAINED RELATIONS. This is the foundation for the stories about strained relations between the two, but if Mr. Blaine's position in the Cabines were disagreeable, his intimate friends would have been certain to know of it, and they have not found it out. If there are any unfriendly feelings between them, the President would not have given the second best position in the consular service to a man whose only claim to consideration was his personal relations with the Secretary, That the President should have hesitated some time over this appointment was natura enough.

The Liverpool consulate would have The Liverpool consulate would have been gratefully accepted by men who have been Senators and Governors. The President must have deliberated upon it before giving it to au $1,800 clerk who had simply been Mr. Blaine's secretary, for he could have satisfied Mr. Thomas Sherman well enough with a $3,000 or $4,000 place, and Mr. Blaine could not have complained.

BLAINE NOT AN AUTOCRAT-The fact that the President is giving a good deal of personal attention to the con-sular selections, and that he is in personal and daily communication with the Samean ners, shows that Mr. Blaine is not the autocrat his friends wished him to be and expected he would be, but there is pothing unusual about the situation. Mr. Lincoln revised the dispatches of Mr. Seward, General Grant acted on his own judgment as much as on Secretary Fish's advice, General Garfield directed the appointment of a Consul General at Berlin without consult-ing Mr. Blaine, and certainly selected other Consuls, and Mr. Cleveland personally directed State Department affairs in more than one instance.

In the matter of appointments, the recommendations of Cabinet officers have never been final, and no President has left the settlement of international questions cu-tirely to his Secretary of State. It is also well known that Secretary Blaine has neither the physical vigor nor the political ambi-tion he once had. He is less aggressive and less autocratic than he once was, and not unwilling to take things rather

NORTHERN NEGROES NEGLECTED.

They Claim Their Southern Brethren Are-Getting All the Offices.

ISPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH. WASHINGTON, May 26,-The colored men who are in Washington in great numbers, seeking their portion of the loaves and fishes, are complaining now that the administration is inclined to give all the places to the colored men from the South, to the utter neglect of those from the North. Lynch, the new Fourth Auditor, Spellman and Smith, land agents, and Townsend, Land Office Recorder, are the colored men who have received good offices up to date. Three of them are from the South, and Townsend from Southern Indiana. The neglected Northern negroes are now pushing C. E. McCabe, ex-Auditor of the State of Kansas, for the Registership of the Treasury, and are inclined to make a row with the President if their wishes are not respected. Ex-Senator Bruce, colored, of Mississippi, was the predecessor of General Rosecrans, the present Register.

The Northern and Western negroes are even more dissatisfied with Wanamaker than with Harrison. Colored men in the South are being appointed postal clerks in large numbers, while the Northern brethren, who cast such a solid Republican vote in New York, New Jersey, Ohio and other States, seem to be entirely forgotten. BLAINE'S NEW PRIVATE SECRETARY.
